

The Pathway of the Future.

BY ORVILLE JOHNSON CLARE.

There's a pathway in the future
That my feet must firmly tread—
Will the sky be bright with sunshine,
Or will clouds hang overhead?
Once I asked this simple question,
But the Future's lips were dumb,
Keeping as its own the secret
Of the years that are to come.

Then I asked the sunbeams, playing
Hide and seek upon the floor—
"Merry sunbeams, will you promise
To stay with me evermore?"
But the sunbeams out the window
Slyly crept without a word;
Long I listened, but heard nothing
Save the leaves the light wind stirred.

Then the moon and stars I questioned—
"Would they make the future bright?
But they gave me back to answer,
Only twinkled down their light.
Then I bowed my head in sorrow,
When the wind came from the west,
Softly saying, "Let this secret
Sleep within the Future's breast."

So I ask no more the question
What the coming years will bring.
Living in the sunny Present,
I am happy—so I sing—
Sing when sunbeams fall around me,
Sing when clouds hang overhead;
Never seeking in the Future
For the pathway I must tread.

Riot in Charleston—Military Called Out.

Yesterday afternoon, about 6 o'clock, an immense crowd (black and white) being on the Battery, a disturbance arose, it is impossible to tell why or how, which soon culminated in a general free fight, in which bricks and other convenient missiles were promiscuously used. The few policemen on the spot, under the command of Lieut. Hendricks, proceeded promptly to disperse the crowd and make arrests, and had succeeded in securing three of the ring-leaders, when Capt. Fields, the Provost Marshal, appeared upon the scene, and as he was the senior officer, Lieut. Hendricks submitted the control of operations to him. The Captain, believing it seems in moral suasion, commanded the policemen not to use their clubs, and went about among the negroes commanding and beseeching them to disperse. The consequence was that the disturbance was quelled temporarily, and only three more arrests were made. There were some two hundred negroes engaged in the first row.

Encouraged by getting off so lightly in the first instance, the negroes collected a second time under the leadership of some eight or ten colored soldiers, unarmed but in uniform, and, in a kind of riotous procession, literally took possession of Wards 1 and 2, marching around the Battery and through King, Tradd, Meeting, Elliott and other streets in that quarter, creating great alarm and excitement, but meeting with no resistance.

When news of the second riot, which was in a manner a continuation of the first, was brought to the Guard House, Mayor Gaillard sent a dispatch to the military commander of the Post, asking for assistance, and gave orders to the officer of the day to await his action. Meantime the police rapidly gathered, and Lieut. Minott soon had a squad of fifty at his disposal. Reports of the increased violence of the mob being made, and demands for assistance becoming urgent, that officer determined to await the military no longer, and sallied forth. He had scarcely set out when he met an officer in command of twenty-five soldiers who had been sent to his assistance. No sooner did the military and police appear upon the streets than negroes could be seen darting off in every direction, evidently to give warning to the rioters; and when, pursuant to a plan adopted, the soldiers and policemen, in two separate bodies, scoured Wards 1 and 2 from Broad street to the Battery, they met with no resistance whatever. The whole crowd had dispersed; and colored soldiers probably to their quarters, and the negroes into the various gateways, yards, &c.

[Charleston News.]

MOBILE, ALA., June 23.—The shackling of Jeff Davis, as described by Surgeon Craven, was published in the Register this morning. It causes universal indignation.

The Register and Advertiser says:—The treatment of Napoleon Bonaparte by Great Britain was noble, chivalrous, humane, courteous, magnificent, when compared with the indignities inflicted in the name of Republican America upon Jefferson Davis. It was not Jefferson Davis alone that was subjected to cruel indignity by this cowardly act. The outrage was committed upon the eight millions of people whom he professed to regard as brothers.

The iron entered into their souls. It now enters into the soul of every honest man and every virtuous woman that reads this shameful story. It is a story that will stir the soul of the veriest stoic that exists."

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—The Louisville Courier give an account of a most distressing accident that occurred at Louisville a few days since. The floor of a water closet giving way beneath them, Miss Jennie Brown and Miss Sallie Hart were precipitated together into the sink below, where their dead bodies were found about an hour after the accident. Miss Brown and Miss Hart were both beautiful and accomplished, the former being seventeen and the latter nineteen years of age.

An old gentleman remarked the other day that in 1776, we went to war on account of the Stamp Act, and got the nigger; while in 1861, we went to war about the nigger and got the Stamp Act.

Pacific Railroads.

Among the great enterprises of the age which appear to have been left sight of among the more exciting topics that have occupied public attention, are the various railroads that have been projected and are now reaching their iron fingers across the western prairies to the Pacific coast. Contending with obstacles that would have frightened men of any other age, the engineers of these roads are pushing bravely forward at the rate of about three quarters of a mile per day. So earnest are the contractors of one of these railroads—the Union Pacific—which travels west from Omaha, that they contemplate providing artificial lights to expedite the work by night as well as day, so as to complete if possible two miles every twenty-four hours. Two passenger cars and one hundred and ninety box and platform cars, are by this time running one hundred miles west of the above named town. When completed it is believed that this Union Pacific Railroad will become a feeder, as well as a receiver of trade and business of no ordinary magnitude, and it is no stretch of the imagination to suppose that the tonnage of this great national highway will, at no distant day, consist largely of the precious ores from the mineral districts of our western States and territories sent to the eastern States, where cheap fuel, cheap labor, and improved machinery will be used for their smelting and refining. The development of this rich mineral domain must ensure to the welfare of the nation, borne down as it is by a tremendous debt, but if the same amount of capital and liberal spirit were bestowed upon the development of the agricultural resources of the South, the amount of wealth that would be poured into the coffers of the country would be three fold as great as that likely to result from these national pet undertakings known as Union and Pacific railroads.—Carolinian.

Mr. H. Rivers Pollard and Mr. Saml. James, brother in law of Mr. E. A. Pollard, have had some difficulty in Richmond. From the accounts published, both of these gentlemen tussled together before they were separated, when according to Mr. James' version he was followed down stairs by the wash-bowl, a pair of tongs, &c. Mr. Pollard publishes a card in his Examiner of the 27th, in which he says: "I now post him as a liar, poltroon and coward."

Sam James is further informed that the above card will be posted by me in all the hotels of the city, and other public places, between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock this morning."

M. Melsens, a French chemist, has found that tobacco from various countries contain nicotine in very different proportions. In tobacco from some parts of France there is 7.96 per cent. of nicotine, whilst Havana tobacco contains only 2 per cent. He proposes to smokers a way of preserving them from the effects of the alkaloid, by putting into the tube of the pipe or cigar holder, a little ball of cotton, impregnated with citric and tannic acids. As the smoke passes through the cotton, it will deposit the nicotine therein in the shape of tannate and citrate.

The New York Masons held a meeting on Monday evening for the purpose of considering a matter to be laid before the Grand Lodge, in relation to the Grand Lodge of the Three Globes, through her Grand Master, the King of Prussia, who, it is understood, refuses to make any Masons (he being Grand Master of that Province) except those who acknowledge the Christian religion. This action of the King of Prussia has particular reference to the Jews. A committee was appointed to lay the matter before the Grand Lodge, and have that body protest against it.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The train on Wednesday evening, on the Greenville Railroad, met with an accident which, however, fortunately, did not result in any damages to the passengers on the train. An Engine, with three cars, was thrown off the track, in consequence of some injury to the trestle work, about one mile and a half this side of Alston. The trains ran up yesterday as usual, perhaps with only two or three hours delay. The damage to the road was repaired yesterday. All is right again.—Columbia Daily Patriot.

SALT CHIMNEYS.—In building a chimney, put a quantity of salt into the mortar with which the intercourses of brick are to be laid. The effect will be that there will never be any accumulation of soot in that chimney. The philosophy is thus stated: "The salt in the portion of mortar which is exposed, absorbs moisture from the atmosphere every damp day. The soot thus becoming damp, falls down to the fire-place. This appears to be an English discovery. It is used with success in Canada."

GENERAL HAMPTON.—A correspondent of the Memphis Argus, writing from Egg's Point, Mississippi, says: "Ten or twelve miles below here, at Lake Washington, lives Lieutenant General Wade Hampton, the second greatest cavalry chieftain of the late Confederacy. He owns extensive plantations, upon which he divides his time, devoting himself chiefly to the congenial pursuits of a Southern gentleman—books, planting and the chase. His former slaves remain with the General, and are represented as contented and industrious."

Governor Hamilton, of Texas, arrived in Washington on the 17th. He represents matters as quiet in Texas, though he does not regard the people as loyal now as they were one year ago. The cotton crop, he states, would have been very large in the State, had it not been for the recent heavy floods, which have destroyed at least one-half of it. He further adds that the free labor system is working well.

Renewed efforts are in progress for the release of Jefferson Davis from his prison house at Fortress Monroe. Ex-Governor Pratt and some of his counsel had an interview with the President to day. They represented that a release on bail, or on parole, or a change of air, was absolutely indispensable to the health of the prisoner. Horace Greeley has written another strong letter urging the President to release Mr. Davis.

The United States Senate was engaged on the 21st, in consideration of the Consolidated Tax Bill, and made very good progress on the measure. The House concluded the consideration of the new Army Bill, which was then passed. Yeas 72; nays 41. It provides for a maximum of 50,000.

It is said that bail to the amount of two million dollars can be procured in Baltimore for Mr. Davis, in five hours. Twenty-five thousand dollars have already been subscribed to defray the expenses of his trial.
